

Originally debuted at the San Antonio Botanical Gardens, the "Botanical Fridas" project was created as a cultural, artistic, and multi-national collaboration that would serve as a turning point for public art installations around the world.

The 15 8-foot-tall sculptures and 15 mini-sculptures each represent a different artist's point of view about the art and life of one of the most recognizable female and Mexican artists Frida Kahlo.

MARCH 26 - MAY 23

Take a closer look!

Many of the sculptures have things from Frida's life that she loved - can you spot some of them?

How many toads did you see?

How many different kinds of birds did you find?

Did you see any Xoloitzcuintli dogs?

What other symbols from Frida's life did you find?
